A three-months trip in Sikang you, of the Agricultural Economics Research Society of the University of Nanking at the Memorial Service in Yenching University on November 15. He has been to Sikang with Dr. Johnson, a Specialist in animal herding on an investigational trip last summer vacation.

He stated that cattle, sheep and horse were largely bred in Sikang, and the people were actually living on them, However in the early spring of every year, the domestic animals were constantly under threat of being starved to death due to lack of grass for two or three months, and animal plagues prevailed at the same time. This problem, he thought, would be solved by storing great quantities of grass during the summer.

With respect to the quality of the animals he suggested that cattle and sheep of American breed were worth while bringing into the province as they produced more milk and wool, and under the guidance of a specialist of animal herding, Sikang would become prosperous in the future.
